I liked smeling the fresh coffee while I miksed pancake batter and the blueberries that were shiped to Palmer Station. As I was mixing one day, I heard a loud rumbling noise. Before I could go outside to investigate, I had to put on my parka, a wool hat, and boots. I also coverd my face with sunscreen and grabbed my sunglasses because I didn't want to risk a bad sunburn or snow blindness. My sunglasses were dirty and needed to be wipet. They landded on the snow when I was out wandereng around and sliped on the ice last night. My friends thought I'd faintted, but that was not the case. I am new here and hikeing on open ground is a bit tricky.

When I got outside, I saw a big blue whale and a newborn calf exhaling a blast of hot wet air. It was such a pleaseing sight! I really enjoy visitting new places!
